News was received in this city last week announcing the death of Prof. Henry M. Gunn, aged 50 years, and former superintendent of the local city schools. Besides his wife, who was formerly Miss Roberta Marrs, of Lexington, Professor Gunn is survived by one son, Prof. Henry M. Gunn, Jr., who will succeed his father as superintendent of the high school at Mapleton, Ore., and one daughter, Miss Jane Berkley Gunn. Interment took place at Tacoma, Wash. The many old friends here of Prof. and Mrs. Gunn are deeply grieved over the professor's death, and extend to her sincere sympathy.

Hon Meat Company's Cold Storage Plant

Work on this plant is advancing rapidly. The frame and brick work of the first story is up, the basement is being concreted and a massive stone wall set in cement is to protect the building from the high waters of Hinkston creek. It will require several months of constant work to complete the plant and set the modern machinery, but when finished this cold storage plant will be one of the most modern anywhere.

Will Be Tried Saturday

Hayden and Will Sewell who were arrested last week as suspects in the C. P. Stephens case, will have their examining trial Saturday before Judge E. W. Senff. The two brothers have been out on bond of $500 each which was furnished by B. F. Caudill, W. W. Eubank, Billy Wells and Henry Watson.

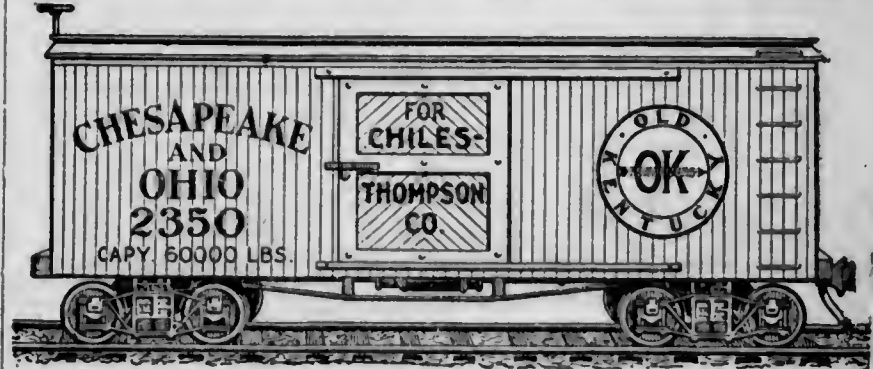

City High School Notes

The baseball team won the first game of the season last Friday by a score of 13 to 3. They are to play a game with Cynthiana next Friday. The Cynthiana games are always interesting and it is expected, as well as hoped, that the Mt. Sterling squad will win as nicely as they did last Friday.

Senior Class attended a lecture last Friday at the University of Kentucky Chapel. The subject was Community Drama by Mr. Percy Mackye. It was quite as interesting as educational. That evening they enjoyed the play, "The Admirable Crichton" presented by the Strollers of the University of Kentucky. They were quite proud of Miss Conroy of this city who exerted remarkable talent throughout the enactment of her role.

Teach Employes Art of Selling and Pleasing

Generally speaking retail clerks in country towns are not receiving any instruction from their employers with regard to selling methods and a knowledge of the merchandise. Many of them are good salesmen, many of them are polite and obliging, many instinctively grasp the psychology of handling customers, but they know little of the best methods of salesmanship and they are not taught, although they would be glad to learn and quick to absorb.

The New York stores conduct a school for their selling force. Classes attend every day. Experiences are exchanged, results are announced, and suggestions made.

The principle can be applied by any storekeeper even if he has only one selling assistant. Talk to him. Study selling and teach those who sell for you.

POLICEMAN NOW GIVES OUT FACTS

Says Tanlac Enabled Him to Pass
Examination With Rating A-1 and He Feels Great

"I never paid out money to better advantage in my life than when I got Tanlac, for it has restored my health and built me up fifteen pounds in weight besides," said Frank J. Hebler, patrolman on the Covington, Ky., police force and who lives at 513 Hakeman street.

"For a long time past," he continued, "I had not been in the best of health, and last spring I started all of a sudden to going down hill rapidly. What I ate didn't seem to do me a bit of good. After meals I bloated up so tight with gas that I could hardly stand the pressure of my belt around my waist. I was on night duty and my legs hurt so it was with difficulty I got around in patrolling my beat.

"My nerves went all to pieces and I usually went home all tired out, and never got any sound sleep, just dosed by fits and starts and got up feeling worse than if I hadn't gone to bed at all.

"But Tanlac has just knocked out all these troubles and got me to feeling like a new man. Since taking it I can enjoy my food and it does me good. I sleep like a log and am in top-notch condition in every way. I recently underwent the regular re-examination for the police force and passed physically with a rating of A-1, which I never could have done in the shape I was in before I got Tanlac."

Though scarce as diamonds, true friendship shines like a diamond, and blazes on unconsumed through the years, while love's passion, common as fire, often burns like a fire, and sometimes too soon leaves a mere heap of cinders and ashes.

Before they are married he often says that he would die for her, but after they are married she often has to shoot him to make him keep his promise.

American Legion Notes

Maintaining contact with the main body of the American Legion by native runners, a traveling post of the Legion is today moving through the jungles of Portuguese West Africa. The post is the first on the Dark Continent and its establishment leaves Australia as the only continent which has not been penetrated by the Legion. Twenty-three explorers for oil, headed by Robert H. Wamsley, fell to discussing the war on the trail out of Loanda, Angola, and it was discovered that eleven of the number were ex-service men. Wamsley communicated with Akron, Ohio Post of the Legion, which arranged to obtain the necessary papers from national headquarters to establish the African post. The explorers will remain in the wilds for three years.

Wisconsin led the other departments of the American Legion in new posts formed during the week ending March 19, charters having been issued to three posts. Ohio chartered ten units of the Women's Auxiliary and Pennsylvania nine. There are now 10,297 posts of the Legion and 2,366 units of its Women's Auxiliary.

When the chief of police of Amarillo, Texas, was threatened with death for his efforts in fighting the crime in that city, American Legion members formed an auxiliary police force and stood by the chief until the town was cleaned up.

Thomas W. Miller, of Delaware, is receiving congratulations from members of the American Legion in all parts of the country because of his appointment as Alien Property Custodian by President Harding. Colonel Miller was a member of the Paris exodus of the American Legion in 1919, one of the incorporators of the organization in this country and chairman of the National Legislative Committee of the Legion from June, 1919, to June, 1920. His new job is to look after a billion dollars' worth of German and Austrian property in this country taken over by the government when war was declared against the Central Empires.

A protest, alleging "discrimination against postal employees because of service for their country during the World War," will be placed before Postmaster General Will Hays by the American Legion, according to Lemuel Boiles, National Adjutant of that organization. The Legion now charges that provisions of the act giving war veterans preference in civil service examinations have been ignored. The committee, which will take the matter up with Mr. Hays, will be headed by Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

To further better understanding between Canadian and American veterans, representatives of the American Legion posts at Oswego and Watertown, N. Y., have been invited to attend the annual banquet and celebration of St. Julian's Day, which will be held at Kingston, Ontario, April 22 and 23 under the auspices of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada. St. Julian's Day will mark the anniversary of the first poison gas attack, which the Germans made on the Canadians at Ypres. The Legion's action against Boche propaganda was characterized by the Canadian society as "a splendid stand in defense of our common liberties."

Full indorsement of the American Legion has been voted by the Central Labor Union of Willmar, Minn. The resolution, which avers that the aims of the Legion and Organized Labor are identical, refers specifically to Visitors to Gotham from the ranks of the American Legion are invited to have their mail addressed in care of S. Rankin Drew Post, 101 West Forty-second street, New York City. The drive took two months. Representatives of the Legion, Bureau of War Risk Insurance, Public Health Service and Federal Board for Vocational Education visited every county in the state and interviewed men who had claims for compensation, education or hospitalization. Former service men who were not members of the Legion benefited as equally as Legionnaires.

Contributions of more than $5,000 received for a proposed memorial to veterans in Twin Falls County, Idaho, were turned over to the local post of the American Legion when it was deemed inadvisable to carry on the plan.

A call for all members of the American Legion to contribute ten cents to the Memorial Day fund for the decoration of American graves overseas was sent out in a bulletin from Legion National Headquarters.

TO MAKE BRIGHT TOBACCO

The demand is almost entirely for bright tobacco. If we expect to make a paying crop, we must go to work to make bright tobacco. In order to do this we must plant it early and grow it quick.

Every farmer in the Burley Belt should use fertilizer on his plant beds and enough on his ground to give his tobacco a start and make a quick growth. One bag (125 lbs.) of our Plant Food sowed once over a 9-foot wide and 200-foot long, and raked in with a small hand rake, will give you strong healthy plants two weeks sooner. Two hundred pounds of our Bright Leaf Tobacco Grower, drilled in or by the side of the row, will give your tobacco a start and make an early, bright, fine crop. It will pay on any land. Four hundred pounds, drilled in or sowed all over the ground, will make a fine tobacco crop and a big wheat crop, and insure you a good stand of grass.

We sell only the V.-C. Fertilizer, made by the Virginia-Carolina Company (the largest manufacturers of fertilizers in the world.) This fertilizer has been tried all over this and every other section and has given satisfaction. Our Plant Food has proven to be the best for plant beds, and our Gem Tobacco Fertilizer has ammonia enough to start the plant and give it a quick growth, and sufficient acid phosphate to ripen it with high color.

Rhoda Royal Talks About Wild Animals

"Of all animals that are trained for circus performances the elephant is the most intelligent."

The above statement was made by Rhoda Royal, of Rhoda Royal's gigantic three-ring circus, menageries, hippodrome and trained animal exhibition, combined with the Old Buffalo Bill Wild West, which will give afternoon and night performances in Mt. Sterling.

Rhoda Royal ought to know, for he has been an animal trainer ever since he was a boy in his 'teens, and ranks as the most proficient and expert trainer of animals in the United States, among other interesting things, Mr. Royal said:

"Elephants learn with phenomenal quickness and they do not show that aversion to their tricks that the animals of the cat family exhibit. I have seen elephants practice difficult tricks voluntarily—when they didn't know that anybody was near them."

Speaking of "cat animals," Mr. Royal said:

"About seven weeks are required to teach a trained lion or bear a trick, while a little longer time is necessary to teach a leopard or a tiger."

It is the opinion of Rhoda Royal that the above-named animals have ever more capacity for learning than the horse. He said that, while a tiger can be taught to walk upon its hind legs in three or four months, it will require a much longer period of time to teach a horse to do the same trick.

The famous Rhoda Royal herd of performing elephants will be seen in the grand free street parade, which will move over the principal thoroughfares of Mt. Sterling Saturday, April 23, at 10 o'clock in the morning. The parade will also contain a drove of camels and numerous open cages of lions and other cat animals, llamas, bears and other beasts from the wild places of the four corners of the earth.

Immediately after the parade there will be a free exhibition on the show grounds. The doors will be thrown open at 1 and 7 o'clock P. M., and the performances will begin at 2 and 8 o'clock P. M.

Fifteen Points for Baby Chick Raisers

Give the chicks their first feed after they are 36 hours old.

This feed should be some form of milk.

Do not overfeed the chicks. Keep them anxious for the next feed.

Remove the mash feed during half of the day if the chickens are eating too much of it and are not hungry for the grain feed.

Induce the chicks to exercise and keep busy at all times.

Get the chicks out on the ground as soon as possible.

Put large pieces of sod, bottom sideup, in the brooder when the chicks cannot be out of doors.

Provide grit and charcoal at all times.

Keep the water for them fresh and clean.

Have plenty of shade available for the chicks and growing stock.

If grass range is not available, feed some form of green feed, such as sprouted oats.

Use only the best grade of good wholesome feeds.

Make all changes gradually.

Consult the College of Agriculture, Lexington, on new troubles and difficult problems.

Pruning Still Timely Says State Specialists

Pruning may still be done with good results in spite of the fact that leaves have begun to come out on many trees, according to recommendations of the State College of Agriculture. Specialists in the horticultural department have recommended that rubber overshoes be worn in climbing the trees to perform pruning operations in order to prevent injury to the bark.

If you are a free horse, make up your mind to be ridden to death.

U. S. FARMERS' GIFT CORN NOW MOVING TO STARVING EUROPE

Fifty million bushels of corn, long train loads from every state in the middle west and the gift from American farmers, are moving to seaports for shipment to the relief of starving children of central Europe and Asia. Carl S. Vrooman of Bloomington Ill., former assistant secretary of Agriculture heads the committee named by the American Farm Bureau Federation. The corn is shipped first to great milling centers where it is ground into meal and then on to idle wooden ships commandeered by the farmers from the Emergency Fleet Corporation. The railroads, railroad workers and the mills have contributed use of machinery and work to the cause.

on more than 1,000,000 bushels of wheat sold to Spain caused prices to rally from low points. On the 31st also there was persistent buying of corn by strong interests, which absorbed selling by houses with country connections. In Chicago cash market No. 2 red winter wheat at 16 1-2c over Chicago May; No. 2 hard wheat same premium; No. 3 mixed corn 4@5c under Chicago May corn; No. 3 yellow 4@5 1-4c under. Winnipeg May 5 1-2c at $1.71 1-2. Chicago March wheat, $1.51, Minneapolis flour demand dull; fair demand for better grades of wheat; Canadian wheat selling at 41c over Minneapolis May; No. 2 dark 18@34c over.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Butter markets unsettled during the week, but the present tendency is toward recovery prices advancing in all markets on the 31st. Closing prices, 92 score: New York, 48c; Chicago, 45c; Philadelphia, $49c; Boston, 48c. Supply of domestic butter barely taking care of demand and Danish imports have held at firm prices. Cheese markets weak and lower; prices at about low point in December. Trading slow and lower, prices were generally anticipated. Some cheese shipped on consignment from Wisconsin points during week. Some Southern demand, but light, due to discouraging business conditions as well as to declining prices. At Wisconsin primary markets: Twins, 20c, daisies 22 3-4c, double daisies, long-horn and Young America, 22c.

LIVESTOCK AND MEATS—Chicago livestock prices declined 35@75c on hogs, 10@40c on beef steers, 25@35c on feeder steers and 75c@ $1 on veal calves the past week. MR. TAFT'S ALARM

"Burnt statesmen, as well as burnt children, fear the fire; and out of his fear former President Taft sounds a warning to his party not to kindle a conflagration.

"The managers of the Republican party," says Mr. Taft, "will have to decide a critical issue at the beginning of the extraordinary session of Congress, called for April 11th. It is a decision that will have a momentous effect on the revival of business and upon the fall of prices. The decision is whether a bill for the relief of overtaxed capital, now restrained from reviving business, shall be assured in the near future, or whether it shall be postponed to the interminable discussion and party differences that are sure to be developed in the preparation of a general tariff bill."

"Mr. Taft's warning is somewhat belated. The managers of the Republican party, after a deal of wiggling and wobbling, have already made the decision against Mr. Taft cautions them. Perhaps Mr. Taft, however, knowing their propensity to wiggle and wobble, and knowing that their last is not the only decision they have made in the matter, feels that there is yet a chance to induce them to wobble from a bad decision to a better.

"At any rate he makes the attempt. The tariff, he says, needs, and judging by the history of previous Republican tariffs no doubt will get, in very full hearing of all those whose interests will be affected by change, and such hearings are long and time-consuming. Every consideration, he urges, presses for the priority of the revenue bill first, adding:

"One cannot emphasize too much the burden which the excess profits tax and the surtaxes now impose on the energies of the country, and the direct effect they have upon the maintenance of the high cost of living. It has been said, and probably truly said, that there is no country in the world where the taxes are as heavy as in the United States. Certainly there is no country in which the taxes are so directly framed to discourage business enterprise, and without business enterprise there is no hope of a revival of business. . . . The need for relieving the business of the country from the paralyzing effect of excess profits and the heavy surtaxes is felt by every business man in the community. The Republican party cannot afford to ignore this universal demand."

"A standpatter may be defined as one who forgets everything and learns nothing. Mr. Taft does not forget and he does learn. But when he has to stand with the standpatters or step outside the party line he stands with the standpatters. Perhaps that is one reason why his advice at this juncture is likely to fall on unheeding ears."—Courier-Journal.

We give the above to our readers who consider political movements that the may well understand why the old timers of the Republican party become alarmed even before the crack of the first gun is heard. Ex-President Taft is a good thinker, he reasons well and no one is better advised as to where responsibility will rest; that the people are looking for relief at this period when sorely oppressed and that the party in power must bring the needed relief or suffer thereby. The Republican party cannot quibble longer but must act promptly.

THE HEROES OF THE MAIL

Will Hays' remark that he intends to humanize the post office under his administration as postmaster general is worth watching for results.

There are nearly 400,000 men and women in the nation's postal department. Taking care of the mails is a job that requires system, and after a while, the more system, the more deadly will become the routine. When a man makes the same trip every day in the year, such as the letter carrier does, the routine must fall on him. When a man is shut up in a mail car day after day and year after year, seeing nothing but bags of mail and gaping pigeon-holes in front of him, it is to be expected that he will presently rebel against the routine of it all.

These men—the letter carriers and railway mail clerks—are real heroes. They go out into all sorts of weather to deliver your letter to you, and they are at their posts on the train regularly and promptly to see that your letter travels properly over the country. If Will Hays' humanizing means that life is to be made better and more pleasant for them, we are for it.

In fact, we are always for the humanizing thing, whether it is in the postoffice department or out in general business and industry.

GOOD NEWS: We are carrying women's hose. We are glad to say that we are now showing all colors and sizes in two prices, $1 and $2 per pair, pure silk hose. Our business on this feature surpasses our expectations, so much that we have decided to add a line of Holeproof lisle hose for harder wear.

A little word to the wise: We wish to say that whatever you have to buy in the merchandise line, buy it now, as every indication points to higher prices. It is told in financial circles that one foreign country has on deposit in the New York banks a billion dollars to be spent for clothing, shoes, underwear, caps, hats, motor trucks and other commodities, which is just waiting a confirmation of a certain government. We believe that prices will go higher.

BILLY SUNDAY IN LEXINGTON

Billy Sunday was in Lexington yesterday to see the world's great racer, "Man o'War." His first ejaculation was "all I know about Lexington is that it is the home of Henry Clay, Col. George W. Bain, Man o'War, White Burley and Blue Grass." And as an afterthought he remembered that his grandmother Martin had lived in Lexington, but did not know the first name of his grandmother. Nor does the report of his coming or going and the incidents thereto give any mention of his grandmother's grave. It was just a racer that drew the famous evangelist to Lexington. Right here we pause as we think of Billy Sunday and associate him with the verse, "Tis home where 'ere the heart is." This is Billy Sunday at Lexington April 4th, 1921.

Magic City Built In "Kismet" Film

A Magic City. A city of silver and golden domes, of mosques and minarets gleaming in sunlight, sunset, and moonlight. Bazaars swarming with life and dizzy with color; palaces and harems straight from the Araby of Imagination, and dungeons such as childhood bending over the "Arabian Nights" never pictured.

Back of this Magic City, a Bagdad of Fairyland, built for the Robertson-Cole production of "Kismet," in which Otis Skinner makes his initial screen debut, and which will be the attraction at the Tabb Theatre on Friday, April 15th, is a story of achievement.

Under the direction of Frank Ormston, art director for the "Kismet" production, over three hundred craftsmen labored day and night and wrought a modern miracle. Two months from the day the first nail was driven, the first shovel of sand upturned, there stood ready for the director, L. J. Gasnier, "Bagdad," complete in every detail, a new record in motion picture production.

The accomplishment of this enormous task was possible however, only through the efficiency of the various departments employed. Little shacks to house the workmen were built right on the studio grounds. There were day and night shifts, and no man left the "lot" until the last board was nailed and the last brick laid.

To safeguard the lives of those connected with this gigantic work, a hospital corps and fire brigade were organized. First aid nurses were in attendance at all times, and cuts and bruises received prompt attention. Although the buildings were insured, it was thought best to have help at hand in the case of fire, and the entire host of men were turned into a fire fighting brigade, trained and ready for action at the first sign of danger.

"Kismet," aside from the beauty of its story, and its sterling star, will find a niche for itself in the hall of fame by reason of its wonder of construction, if for nothing else.

Pig "Thumps" Caused By Lack of Exercise

Lack of exercise and overfeeding are two main causes of "thumps" one of the most common ailments of young pigs, according to Prof. E. J. Wilford, of the Kentucky State College of Agriculture. The animals affected are usually very fat and a spasmodic or jerky motion of the body is quite noticeable.

Prevention is the most important factor in controlling this trouble. If necessary the sow's ration should be reduced and in all cases care taken to see that both the sow and the pigs are given plenty of exercise.

A woman might as well stay in bed and out of sight as to get up and put on a kimono and a boudoir cap.

Standard Airplane May be Developed

Views, as expressed from Washington, which may become the basis of the Harding administration's aviation policy were exchanged at the War Department last week when Secretaries Weeks, Hays and Hoover and Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt met to discuss the aerial activities and needs of their departments.

As a result of the conference it was decided that in the interests of economy standardization could be effected of certain types of machines to be used by the War, Commerce and postoffice departments, and unit buying could be inaugurated without injury to the various services. At present each department does its own buying and experimental work independently. It was also concluded that a standardized plan, as suitable to the needs of the postal air service and commercial work, could be developed along lines that would also permit its use as an army bombing plane.

The question of unification of all government aerial activities under one bureau or a separate department was discussed, but no decision was reached. The ground work was laid, however, for the discussion of this plan, which is expected to occupy the attention of the cabinet at a later date.

Secretary Hoover is understood to have presented to the conference the need of national aviation laws and regulations, and it is regarded as probable that a bill incorporating the ideas advanced, will be presented when Congress convenes in special session. His department is especially interested in the subject because of the growing commercial use of airplanes.

Secretary Hays called attention to the number of accidents in the postal air service and suggested that one way to reduce them would be to subject postal mail flyers to the regular army aviation examination and require them to enter the army aviation reserve corps.

In addition to the heads of departments, there were present to explain technical questions, Major General C. T. Menoher, director of army aviation; Captain William A. Moffett, director of naval aviation, and W. S. Stratton, of the Bureau of Standards.

The department heads will meet again next week to continue the discussion.

What is Space?

We remember attending a state convention of publishers when the question of space came up for discussion. The speaker of the day was very exhaustive in his discussion, and he was listened to attentively by a young chap who had not long been the publisher of a country newspaper. When the speaker said he would be glad to answer questions, the young chap said: "Well, I am a little puzzled for a definition of space. What is space, now, Mr. speaker?"

The speaker thought for a moment. It was like describing a winding staircase.

"Space," he said, "is—well, I don't know exactly how to define it, but I have it in my head, and—"

"I see," said the youngster, "I see!"

The Average Boy

We sat in a little company of men the other evening when the average boy was the topic.

We don't know whether the boys of this community average above or below those of other communities, but we do know that the average boy gets about as much attention as a glass of milk at a brewer's picnic.

None of us are impressed with the fact that the average boy is approaching manhood. If he lives there's nothing to stop him from growing into his maturity.

Whether he reaches his stature with a capability that will enable him to assume the responsibility of citizenship or whether he just drifts in aimlessly, is the big factor in our community economy.

The boy has four critical periods that he must pass through before he stands up and exhibits the stuff that's in him.

Some one has divided his life into four seven-year periods. That brings the full manhood of twenty-eight years. You can't make a man out of a boy and stop off at twenty-one, no more than you can make a seasoned draft horse of a three-year-old.

From one to seven years any boy is pretty good. He is the constant companion of his mother in this first period and her influence is akin to the divine.

His second seven-year period carries him to fourteen years. In this second seven years he breaks loose from the apron strings. He goes down on the mill pond lot. He stands around where men congregate. He hears much that he should not hear. He hears profanity, obscenity and coarse vulgarity. Men have not learned to restrain their converse in the presence of the impressionable boy.

From fourteen to twenty-one is the danger period. It is also the smart-aleck period, for the average boy in his teens thinks what he doesn't know is of small importance. Sound advice to him is about ninety per cent sound and ten per cent advice.

It is the period when he pushes formality aside. It is the period in which he keeps late hours. It is also the period of anxiety for the mother and the period of indifference for the father.

Unfortunately, just when the father should chum with his boy, shaping his thought and conduct, he manifests his greatest indifference. The father oftentimes chides the mother because of her anxiety and solicitude.

If the average boy can pass through this period from fourteen to twenty-one, and come clean, the battle is practically won. If he comes up to his twenty-first year coarse, vulgar, profane and with an undefined purpose, the chances of his making a thorough-going citizen are against him.

Much of the blame for defective young men lies at the door of our men of affairs. But few men ever think of giving a word of encouragement and a boy in his teens is easily glorified. A heart to heart talk in private with a growing boy leaves an amazing impression.

Take the matter of thrift as an example. What hanker has called a boy into the director's room and invited him to open a savings account. Thrift is such an essential virtue that no young man can take his place in the affairs of men until he has acquired it. Credit cannot be granted to the thriftless. Therefore, if a young man is without thrift he is without credit. Without credit he is helpless.

Furthermore, the boy or young man who has acquired thrift has shaken from himself a score of shortcomings that follow in the wake of the spendthrift.

In the fourth period, from twenty-one to twenty-eight, the young man becomes "set," as they say. It is the period in which he decides upon his work or profession. It is the period in which he establishes a home, and

Lead Arsenate Kills

Curculio on Peaches

Peach trees should be sprayed with powdered arsenate of lead, using one pound to 50 gallons of water about the time the sneaks begin to drop to control peach curculio, according to H. R. Marked Drop in Illiteracy is Shown

In a report from Washington illiteracy is decreasing in the nation, according to Census Bureau returns from the first three states in which 1920 enumeration has been worked out on the subject.

In Alabama, where the percentage of illiteracy was found to be 22.9 per cent of the total population over the ten years of age in 1910, the 1920 percentage was 16.1.

In Arkansas the percentage dropped from 12.6 in 1910 to 9.4 in 1920 and in Delaware from 8.1 in 1910 to 5.9 in 1920.

Illiterate persons under the census bureau tabulation include all those unable to write.

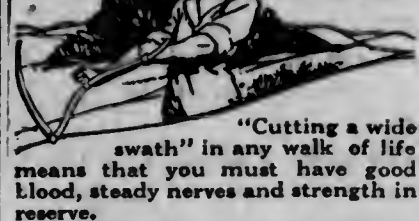

In all three states the percentage of illiteracy in the rural districts was somewhat greater than in the cities. In Alabama 17.8 per cent of rural residents were found to be illiterate and 10.4 per cent in cities. In Arkansas 13.6 per cent of the rural population and 6.5 per cent of urban; in Delaware 6.1 per cent for rural districts and 5.7 per cent for urban.

In both Southern states there was more illiteracy among negroes than whites, although the proportion likewise declined among the negroes during the ten years. In Delaware 17.3 per cent of foreign born white persons over ten were found illiterate and only 2 per cent of native whites of native parentage were so classified.

Strange how large the danger sign looks after a man has fallen in.

Formaldehyde Controls Smuts in Oats

Loose and covered smuts of oats which annually cause a heavy loss to farmers of Kentucky may be prevented by simple formaldehyde treatment of the seed before it is planted, according to recommendations which have been issued by Dr. W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist of the Kentucky State College of Agriculture. Either the sprinkling or spraying method of treating will control both infections.

The sprinkling method is almost a standard procedure for the treatment of oats smuts. The solution, which is used, is made up of one part of formaldehyde and 240 parts of water is equivalent to one pint in 30 gallons. Not more than a gallon of the solution will be necessary for treating a bushel of oats. Application of it is made with an ordinary sprinkling can while the grain is being shoveled from one pile to another, care being taken to see that all seeds are wet. The pile of grain should then be covered with a sack or cloth that has first been dipped in the formaldehyde solution. The seed should be left in this condition for two hours or over night. Best results are obtained if the seed is planted immediately after being treated by either method, but when this is impossible the seed should be washed off in water as soon as possible after the treatment is completed and then spread out to dry.

In using the spray method one part of formaldehyde to one of water should be used and approximately 50 bushels of seed sprayed with one quart. A small hand sprayer may be used in applying the solution to the seed as it is shoveled from one pile to another. One part of formaldehyde may be used to 10 parts of water, but one quart of this solution will spray only five bushels. After the material is applied to the seeds by this method they should be covered the same way as they were in the sprinkling method.

Attorney General's Opinion on Suffrage

Women may now legally serve on juries in Kentucky. This opinion was given by Attorney General Charles I. Dawson in answer to a query from Charles P. Johnson, Inter-Southern Building, Louisville, who wanted to know "whether or not since adoption of the nineteenth amendment to the constitution women are eligible for jury service in this state."

Attorney General Dawson is of the opinion that the adoption of the nineteenth amendment made citizens of women within the meaning of the term and therefore qualified them for jury service. His opinion in full follows:

"The Constitution does not undertake to fix the qualifications of jurors. Section 2248, Kentucky Statutes, defines the qualifications of grand jurors, and, insofar as applicable, provides as follows:

"No person shall be qualified to serve as a grand juror unless he be a citizen and a housekeeper of the county in which he may be called to serve, and over the age of 21 years."

"Certain exclusions, not necessary here to mention, are also made in this section."

"Section 2253, Kentucky Statutes, defines the qualifications of petit jurors, and, insofar as applicable, as follows:

"No person shall be competent juror for the trial of criminal, penal or civil cases in any court unless he be a citizen, at least 21 years of age, a housekeeper, sober, temperate, discreet and of good demeanor."

"It will be observed that neither of these sections specifically require a juror to be a male person. However, the personal masculine pronoun 'he' is used in referring to such juror. The use of this pronoun in connection with the further provision of the statutes that a juror must be a citizen of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, was ample justification for the practice indulged in prior to the adoption of the nineteenth amendment of allowing only male persons to serve on juries. Of course, our statute, Section 332, provides:

"All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, and who reside in the Commonwealth of Kentucky, shall be deemed citizens thereof."

"I am inclined to believe, however, that when the word 'citizen' was used in the two sections of the statute above referred to, fixing the qualifications of grand and petit jurors, it was used in a different sense from the definition given to that word in Section 332 of the statute. As said in the case of Amy vs. Smith, 17 Litt. 333:

"No one can, in the correct sense of the term, be a citizen of a State who is not entitled, upon the terms prescribed by the institution of the State, to all the rights and privileges conferred by those institutions upon the highest class of society."

"For a person to be entitled to the rights and privileges conferred by the laws of Kentucky upon the highest class of society, in my judgment it was necessary to enjoy the right of suffrage. Therefore, it was my conclusion that women were not entitled to serve on juries prior to the adoption of the nineteenth amendment, for the sole reason that they were not citizens within the real meaning of the term as defined in the case of Amy vs. Smith, supra. They now enjoy all the rights and privileges conferred by the institutions of Kentucky upon the highest class of society in this State. In my judgment they are now citizens within the meaning of that word, as used in the two sections above quoted, and entitled to serve as jurors, unless it be held that the use of the masculine pronoun 'he' in referring to jurors precludes them from serving."

"Section 457, Kentucky Statutes, provides in part:

"A word importing the masculine gender only may extend and be applied to females as well as males."

"Therefore, inasmuch as women are now citizens and can meet all the requirements of jurors required by Sections 2248 and 2253 of the Kentucky Statutes, the word 'he' as used in the sections referred to should be made to apply to and embrace females as well as males. It follows from what I have said that women may now legally serve on juries in Kentucky."

EDUCATIONAL TOOTH TALK—43 Improved Methods

Since the beginning of dentistry the public has looked upon this profession as a necessary evil. The universal rule has been to put off going to the dentist as long as possible. Dental science has now eliminated the disagreeable features; it is no longer an ordeal. Most dentists have adopted these latter-day treatments, although some, we are sorry to say, still follow in the footsteps of their forefathers. In up-to-date dental offices discomfort is now the exception. That is why the public has become less hostile to the profession.—Dr. H. M. Wright, Traders Bank Building.

These Words

Carry Power

Paper bowls, miniatures of those seen throughout China, have been received from New York by the China Famine Fund in Louisville, of which Rev. E. Y. Mullins is Chairman. Within these paper bowls are small morsels of the only food that is sustaining life in the 40,000,000 inhabitants of the famine area in North Central China; a coarse flour made from tree bark, dry leaves and roots, which is pulverized and mixed with water to be baked into cakes.

The purpose of these miniature bowls is to bring home to the school children and Sunday School pupils the plight of the Chinese and to give them an idea of the great catastrophe which will go down in history as the great famine of China.

Dr. Mullins announces that he will send to any school teacher or Sunday School teacher a supply of these bowls to be shown to the class. Through this medium it is expected that the plight of the Chinese will be brought home to the children of Kentucky, says Dr. Mullins. In sending out the bowls he says:

"The one chance of life that remains to millions of men, women and children is in help from America. They have no other hope. We demanded an open door in China when we sought her trade. Ours must not be a closed door now that the Chinese need help."

"Those who think in terms of trade should remember that these people have been and again will be our customers."

"Those who think first in terms of humanity will remember that this great nation has been our constant friend. This same area, now in the throes of the worst famine in history, is the same great wheat producing area that sent millions of bushels of wheat to the Allies when France, England, Italy and Belgium faced hunger just prior to the entrance of the United States in the World War."

"It is not hard to make a splendid gesture of sacrifice before a world that is sacrificing everything for a high purpose. But these are the dull days when the rush and thrill of it all is over; when the world half forgets the big things for which it fought and statesmen sit in the Ashes of Victory, quibbling over tremendous trifles."

"Yet that high purpose of those who died still lives in the hearts of the saving remnant of the people of all lands. It is their task and they will not shirk it. Everywhere, East and West, in China and in Europe, mankind calls to America from the depths."

"Most of us eat too much Sunday. Many of us eat too much at other times. Save the surplus for starv-
